Still looking for unbiased news

As a national public radio production, NPR should strive to present both sides or an unbiased view of news stories. There are plenty of "infotainment "shows out there. Why can't NPR provide news without political bias or commentary?

News not opinions

I am officially unfollowing NPR podcasts due to a recent episode stating an opinion on the CEO united healthcare murder. I don't need them telling me that the reaction to this situation is disturbing. I was a faithful follower and now I'm not.

- Schnepplady 12 Dec 2024 United States

Biased Coverage

After years of listening to this podcast I just had to unfollow. Their depiction of the UHC CEO assassination was completely biased. What's the point in humanizing a killer (Brian Thompson), when his assassin is so clearly the people's champ? Never coming back.

Amazon's Up First

It's funny how people can listen to up first and hear a liberal bias. The spoon feeding of corporate propaganda (talking points) with the feels-right style of the news is insufferable. Everyone has been so concerned with political angles for so long that they miss the real slant that has the whole country and world sliding downhill. It's a pain to collect real information these days. It's like doing all sections of college entrance exams. It's sad. It's tedious. We all deserve better. Plain truth. Good luck aggregating your information, everyone.

liberal bias is too much

I say this as a long time listener and someone who has only ever voted for democrats The liberal bias is too much Over the years ,it became increasingly obvious they were just reporting one side stories. More recently, it has turned into active propagandizing of a narrative. It has gotten to the point where I just turn it off mid episode. As of today, I am unsubscribing. The reason I listen to NPR is to hear unbiased nonpartisan news. I am not asking for bothsidesism. Please just report the relevant facts and don't push a narrative.

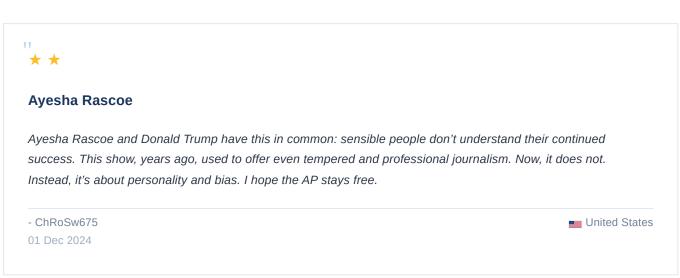

- Great unmasks geisha 06 Dec 2024

Surprisingly Sanguine

I am concerned NPR is normalizing the dissolution of American democracy by extreme religious beliefs and authoritarian rule. Surely journalistic neutrality is not be the most effective tool when the very existence of NPR is at stake.

Too loose

I like this show for what it is, I think they should focus more on journalism and news rather than developing radio personalities. It's not too much thankfully so I still listen. There are other podcasts for that, please not this one. And it might be asking too much, letting the reporters (or one at least) have some sort of conservative lean so that an issue can be seen for what it is. Unfortunately, for that I might I just need to look for another podcast for my news. From my understanding, it might be better for ratings and viewership to have a bit of showmanship and stay to one side of an issue. However, I do feel the sentiment of wanting common ground and more understanding and empathy is growing so I do believe that these are valid critiques that might help the show. Wish you all the best, keep doing your best, and I'm grateful for the show. Thanks, Michelle

Love Ayesha Rascoe's voice

Just wanting to say how much I appreciate and enjoy Ayesha's contributions to the sound of NPR. Her reporting is, as expected, top notch. But her presentation style is inviting, authentic and unique to her. It's a pleasure to listen to her.

The only thing is how irritating it is hear Ayesha"s voice. Grating and not radio ready. Can anyone help her with her pitch and guide her into improving it? It's like Chalk on a blackboard.

It's been the start of every day for me for years

There is no other show that treats three current topics with equal measure and that also includes just enough raw, serendipitous personal interaction to make you feel like you belong to a group of friends.

Leans more left over time

"We, The Voters", why did the reporters tone change when speaking about a group of people that feel shamed for supporting Harris but your reporters didn't even speak the part about students not feeling comfortable sharing their support for Trump, you had an interviewee do it. You have no integrity. You just did it again on this Final Campaign Stop episode. Why do you have a reporter upbeat and optimistic when it talking about Harris but then switch to the most depressing sounding human I've ever heard to talk about Trumps campaign? If you can't hire unbiased reporters, you need to hire some conservatives. Also, we don't care to hear about whether you do your own laundry

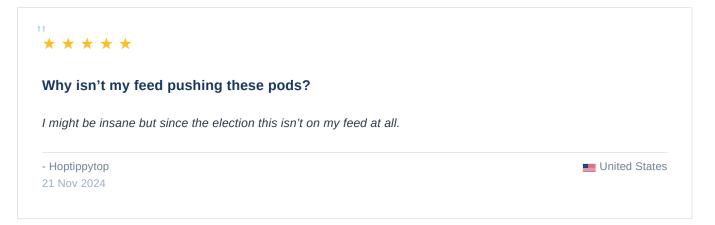

- morning2x4 22 Nov 2024 United States

Can't listen anymore

I used listen every morning while on my commute, and it used to be quite informative with discourse on the most salient of the day. The coverage of the Israel-hamas war has been appallingly biased towards Palestine, and I've had to take a break from the complete one sided coverage

- Stef.fan 21 Nov 2024

Extreme Republican Hate

I tried for months to listen to NPR for a broad perspective but they do not objectively report the news whatsoever. They carry water for the left wing and consistently says the right wing lies about everything. There is no nuance or objectivity too their reporting. For their stories not involving "lies" the republicans tell, or the "angels" that democrats are, they have nice stories that will broaden your understanding... But they are few and far between.

Odd choices

I've listened to up first for several years, segments remain a decent and short listen which I enjoy in early morning. Several special segments recently have been a rather tough listen/ un listenable. I'm sure Ayesha is a great person and employee, however...for an audio based podcast I think it's rather egregious to have her narrate these segments. Her delivery and demeanor severely effects the product and not in a good way.

Up First

Short, information is well researched. A great way to start my day off. Thankful for the podcast. GC Really look forward to getting the Podcasts. Would prefer a more mature greeting: "Hey there ....." is more tuned to greeting horses. Have my High School students to listen and write a review for extra credit. There is HOPE for future from these insightful young people. Thanks for giving my students something to learn from besides me. Dr. GC "Hey". I don't appreciate the silly response opening today. Normally hosts sound professional. 7/21 reminds me of 2 immature teens. Long "Heeeey" and attempts to answer phone was unprofessional. Almost turned off but rest of podcasts was good. Dr, GC Please stop long litany of those contributing to producing show. Boring and it is their job. Takes too long to hear list. Deleted another podcast for this issue. Hopefully you can see my message and STOP repeating whom to thank. Dr. GC Still hearing long litany of helpers. Not sure if it is necessary to daily report on people doing their job. Imagine they are paid for their work? Thanks, Dr.GC Once again like podcasts but dislike long litany of people that need thanks. Waste of time to hear all people earning money with fragile egos. Do they really have to hear their names listed? Dr. GC Tired of poor speech: Yeah, I mean, like, you know etc. Lazy speech isn't a hood example of educated, well informed people. AP students in my high school class are encouraged to sound educated in speech and writing. Poor speech is a lazy habit and can be changed. Dr. GC Ph. D. Still dislike being addressed as "Hey." Doesn't seem educated. How about Good morning? Dr. GC Really like podcast but so tired of long list of staff members who are paid getting named. Maybe once a month instead of every time. Dr. GC Would it be possible to address audience as "hello" or "good morning" instead of "hey"? Sounds uneducated and disrespectful. 11/9/24 Dr. GC

Israeli soccer fans attacked.

I can't believe I used to be a daily listener. And that you equated the violence against Israeli soccer fans with a slur said by them. They were stabbed and had their teeth kicked out and thrown into the canals by mobs. You also fail to mention that the attackers were Islamist immigrants. What a joke. Political correctness at the expense of a truthful picture. So shameful

Disappointed

I thought NPR was neutral. So disappointed in the coverage from 11/09/24 and the misinformation and lies they are spreading/where paid to spread. ### Why lie?

Yahya Sinwar's death did not happen as told by Hadil Alshalchi, which is something anyone with a Twitter account can tell you. Look up the Israeli coverage of his death - he did not die because a building collapsed on him. It took a tank, a missile, a drone and finally a sniper to bring about his end. All very well documented. So why lie? I know the answer, do you?

Mercy

Too biased. You clearly do not care if "right leaning" listeners tune in to your show. However, our taxes help finance NPR, so how about facts without an agenda. You guys could and should do so much better.

Propaganda

Obvious liberal bias. Defund NPR! Amazing that anyone considers them reputable.

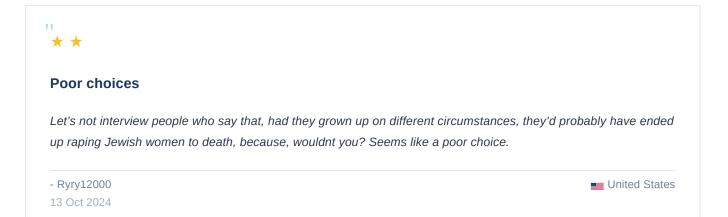

- HIsteig 14 Oct 2024 United States

Used to be a huge fan

NPR has fallen so far. Your interview with Coates is the last straw for me and I'm unsubscribing after 2 decades of listening. Less than 10% of NPR listeners are black, yet the reporting staff at the organization is obsessed with spreading radical ideologies that promote tribalism. There are no registered Republicans on staff at NPR. I'm not a conservative. I'm a liberal white woman with an advanced degree, your "ideal audience", and I know the lack of diversity in opinions is a huge problem with the reporting.

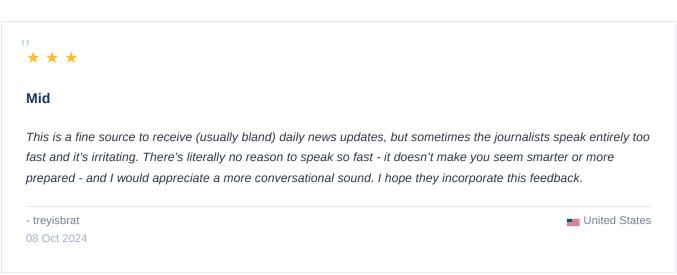

- castls123 13 Oct 2024

Report the news with a pretending to know the truth

There is a moral equivocation in the comparison of how Israel and Palestine are marking the one year anniversary of an unbelievably violent and unprovoked attack. Hamas is the aggressor, Hezbollah has fired rockets daily in unity with Hamas. The civilians are innocent victims but you need to emphasize how Hamas embeds itself among civilians to deter attacks. You also falsely suggest that Hamas has offered to give up all hostages-considering many have died in there possession. Gross UF!

- with all due respect

Now mostly ads

How many minutes of pre-roll ads does a show theoretically for the public's benefit want me to listen to? After 30+ years of NPR, I've switched to the NYT and am not missing this!

- *asr* 05 Oct 2024 United States

Not even attempting to be politically neutral

Did I just listen to a pro-terrorist news piece? I am an avid NPR listener and was quite shocked to hear the journalist in this morning's episode so casually discuss Hezbollah, emphasizing their "determination" while underplaying that they are a terrorist organization whose crimes have been heinous. What is happening to journalism?!

- Mir13617 04 Oct 2024 United States

Unconscionable

Your episode on Nasrallah is unconscionable. You refer to a known terrorist as a "spiritual and political leader" - this is a man who had American blood on his hands and not once did you acknowledge that - not once! Your "reporting" makes it seem like a beloved hero was unjustly murdered...you talk about the apparent remorse of people on the ground and yet say nothing about the celebrations taking place in Syria and also by Lebanese that have suffered at the hands of this horrible man. Our President (and VP) didn't have a hard time calling Nasrallah what he was - why can't you? This is beyond bad journalism - it's whitewashing and misinformation. You guys should be held accountable

Oct 1st, 2024 Episode Felt Imbalanced

I listen to NPR Up First every morning, and usually appreciate that the podcast shows a more balanced approach to most stories. The coverage of the Israeli conflict today in the Oct 1st, 2024 Up First episode, did not feel like a balanced perspective when it came to Israel. The reporters are emphasizing how Lebanon is being attacked and the suffering of the Lebanese people (which of course, we all have empathy for everyone suffering from war, always), but it doesn't explain why Israel really needs to do their operation in Lebanon (which is because Israeli civilians are being attacked and displaced to start with- something Israelis have been suffering with for years onend). Someone who isn't familiar with this conflict would be lead to think that Israel is engaging in this war out of pure aggression (and would be lead to think that Israel started the conflict), rather than self-defense and preventing present and future rocket attacks from coming into civilian areas in Israel. It also doesn't acknowledge that the only reason we aren't seeing more deaths inside Israel is because of the technology Israel has created to shoot down rockets. If it wasn't for Israel's technology, the brutality of the attacks initiated and conducted by Hezbollah would be more obviously seen and reported on because of the casualties. This nuance is important to report on in order to educate people on the full story. Thanks so much for taking the time to take this feedback into consideration!

Iran doesn't care how many Lebanese or Palestinians die.

Your coverage of the Middle East offers a conspicuous absence and neglect of the position of Israel. Iran overtly aims to destroy that nation. Iran will by proxy sacrifice every citizen in places like Lebanon by first infiltrating daily social infrastructure. Then make people dependent on them. Then destroy its host. Like the creature from the film Alien. It will run a sword through Palestinian children in order to stab at Israel. Why don't you people dig deeper and go after the real monsters here?

- charatza 01 Oct 2024

An aberration of journalism

The latest podcast about the situation in Lebanon is a pure aberration of journalism. All the people interviewed were Arabs openly biased in favor of terrorists. Many lies were told on air with no challenge or fact checking. Where has journalism gone, NPR? It sounds to me like the last bastion of journalism has surrendered to activists rooting for terrorists. You are making Iran proud but are no longer serving the interest of the American public unfortunately.

Racist complainers don't like it

I love Aisha and I think that people complaining that she has too much of an "uneducated" or "regional" accent are showing their racism. The hosts are all great and I do like this show. Yes, it's American, so it contains American content. I'm Canadian but I listen so that I can stay in the loop down south. I agree that it does tend to toe the American company line about the occupation of Palestine, but so does every mainstream news source. I look elsewhere for my news on Gaza.

So sad about what's happened to NPR

Avid listener for years, but I simply can no longer accept the biased slants in the reporting on Up First. Leading word choice, tone, and editorial preference have spoiled what was once the best source for objective journalism. Shame. Steve Inskeep in particular has really lost his sense of objectivity and abused audience trust.

brooklyn seb24 Sep 2024

Gen Z Reporters

"NPR Above the Fray fellow Valerie Kipnis," like other Gen Zers, need to be coached that the letter T needs to be pronounced. Cotton has 2 T's. They need to be pronounced. "Ka-un" is not an acceptable pronunciation from reporters. It's an affection used by Gen Z girls.

Not Loading into Apple Podcasts

This is the show that I want to wake up to every day. Unfortunately, it's the only show that does not load into Apple podcast properly. At first, it was only Saturday and Sunday that did not load. Now, it's all days. It's disappointing.

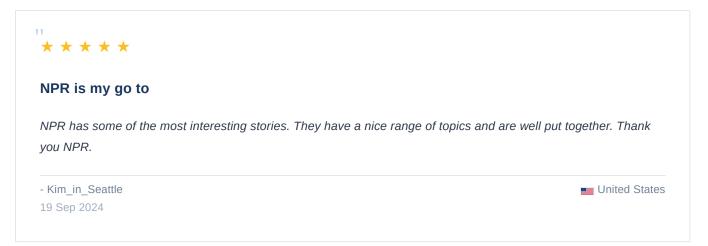

- Cora Jane Hay 22 Sep 2024 United States

Unbiased? Think again

Not a trump supporter, not a Kamala supporter, but I am sick of hearing every episode them giving their OPINIONS rather than explaining and reporting the news. Obviously a democratically sponsored news podcast. Is it that hard nowadays to find a news source that provides simply THE NEWS, without demonizing people or bringing your emotions or opinion into it?

- Tlars103849 20 Sep 2024

Disgusting

Referring to an indiscriminate mass bombing attack in civilian areas that killed and critically injured multiple children as "something out of a James Bond movie" is nothing short of grotesque. If any other country or group besides Israel had committed this attack, we'd be calling it what it is: TERRORISM. Seriously NPR is nothing but State Department propaganda slop. Totally disgraceful.

- Katie the Pest 18 Sep 2024 United States

Banning Tik-Tok

Brain dead morons think banning Tik-Tok is against free speech rights. Banning a foreign owned app is not stopping you from speaking your mind. It's just greedy content creators selling out to China because they either don't care about America or are too ignorant to understand the situation.

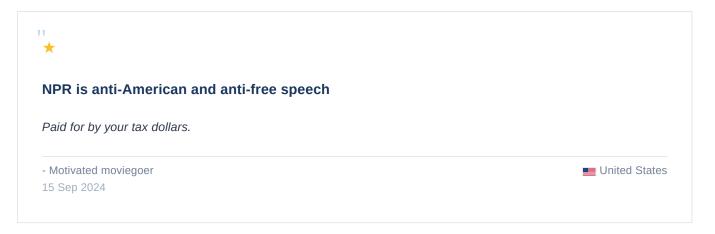

- New York Democrat 16 Sep 2024 United States

Over and out

Have listened and enjoyed for well over a year now. I didn't always agree some word choices that were used, they felt very left leaning, but when you put the biased in the title I can't continue to support NPR. What is the intention of saying "apparent" assassination except to manipulate your listeners? I get it, but I can't support it.

- TennTex 16 Sep 2024

2024 Debate Bias

Sadly your left leaning bias is showing. I'm looking for real unbiased news. I've given you many opportunities. I give up.

What's Easy Isn't Always True

I am a long time listener. As a moderate with a conservative husband I think I always get a good perspective here. However the most recent episode has put me over the edge to - this is clearly biased. As someone who lives the next town over from Springfield, Ohio, I would love to see you do a deep dive into what is happening in that city as someone who has seen these "conspiracy theories" with my own eyes. What is an easy assumption is just not always true. Looking forward to welcoming you to Springfield for a deeper dive into our very large immigration issue that you so easily dismissed.

More editorializing than reporting

Listen to Becky Sullivan's biased reporting on the cop who arrested a defiant Tyreek Hill. Either hasn't seen the video herself or is just ok displaying her bias. This is what NPR has become.

Sorry, but Ayesha Roscoe has a voice that I find so grating that I cannot listen to any of her podcasts. Please do not make this an issue about ethnicity or gender. I watch CNN and MSNBC, and have no problem listening to all hosts on those networks.

Great in Non-Election Years

I am a long time NPR up first listener and the podcast does deliver on its basic premise. It offers a good selections of the days news stories in a brief format. What I found truly allowed NPR to rise above its competitors in the past was that it offered fairly non-biased news, offering an only slightly left of center position. However, as we have gotten closer to the election the stories have gradually become much more partisan and it feels like every episode they are trying to convince you to vote for Harris. This is done is mainly through topic selection and wording that focuses on Harris(and Biden before her)' victories and on Trumps flaws. I will return after the election and I hope to find the NPR of yore.

Fantastic News Show with a Slight Left Lean

NPR Up First does a wonderful job of blending together the important stories of the day. All of the "1 star" reviews that claim NPR is "extremely biased" are likely written by individuals who are themselves extremely biased. NPR is primarily central, with a slight left lean who employs hosts that lean slightly right as well (i.e. Mara Liasson). In doing so, they add diversity to the ideas presented and allow listeners to get a great overview of important happenings. I would recommend this podcast to anyone who is looking for good, unbiased news.

Needs work on rounded view

Needs to work on a more rounded view. Too much bias. Try employing more broadcasters and producers with a view on the other side of the aisle. 50/50 each side would be a good move. You're too far left and you're supposed to be public so shoot for the middle.

Why I will boycott NPR until Maher goes

I saw Katherine Maher's TED talk and was shocked. I counted on NPR as one of my primary news sources. I can't do that if the CEO does not believe in truth. Hearing her talk about the "Wikipedia model" was galling. Is she serious? Wikipedia is fine but not a source for facts. If the new goal for NPR is to become like Wikipedia that is devastating. I hope NPR can get her out before she does too much damage. Until they do, I will be avoiding anything NPR. Adding to my previous comments I tried to give NPR another chance today and was disappointed beyond words. Exactly what I feared would happen had happened. Covering both sides of the presidential campaign as the same is abhorrent. What happened to the journalistic ideals that used to make NPR great? What happened to facts? Well I guess we know. Facts can be alternative apparently. Good bye NPR. It's a sad day.

NPR has lost their way

I have held NPR is high regard as a neutral source of news. Sadly, they have lost their way. Their 'reporting' is far from neutral and clearly shows an extreme bias with their word choice and sentiment. As much as I appreciate a short news synopsis, this is sadly no longer news... it's a biased opinion podcast. I am done. Unfollowing.

Great start to my day...

It's news, so more often than not, it's not fun to listen to. But my favorite episodes are the ones where the hosts share a moment of humor prior to the opening. I am not sure who makes me smile more; Leila always has a great line or two, Steve usually drops some great Dad jokes, and A is just plain fun. Please keep including these. It's like a wonderful, unexpected treat before being served some miserable updates about our world and politics.

First thing...

I appreciate this podcast for giving me a summary of the news that's quick, but not too quick. The hosts are terrific. They ask a nice combination of obvious and insightful questions. I think it's just the right amount of background information to inform my news search for later in the day. The new-ish addition of pre-show banter is entertaining and makes me feel like I'd like to run into them at the coffee shop.

Not covering some major news and liberal

I know this is a liberal news source but they act like they are in the center. But I use it for left wing news. Also a few days ago Britain maybe kinda burst into flames with some riots. Well they didn't cover it til august 7th. If there was a anti-Israel or homophobic protest you'd know that they not only included it in the newest episode but probably get a episode by itselves In the words of your "great" and "heroic" and "inspiring" president Biden "come on man"

- CherishesSwan 07 Aug 2024 United States

Not covering major news

Today (5 Aug 2024), UpFirst focused on Harris' VP candidate selection and the Olympics. No attention was paid to the riots in the UK, the global stock exchange turbulence, or the looming war in the Middle East (at least in any substantive way). NPR is biased and miopic in its coverage. It can no longer maintain its brand and best selling feature—successfully pretending to be sophisticated and cosmopolitan.

7/12/24

Asma's story on Up First this morning re the Biden presser seemed off. Yes, he mixed up some names but you never mentioned he caught the error and corrected himself. She didn't note, or want to(?), his mastery of foreign policy during the presser nor mention the European leaders who gave interviews praising Joe's ability. Was this Asma's reporting or the direction from those above her? It lacked a lot of context and only highlighted gaffes from a man who has been making gaffes for decades. Next time you mix up some names I want you to question your own ability and start magnifying each and every error you make going forward to ask yourself if you're up to it. Oh wait, that would be in bad faith.

Republican Biased

I've been listening this show for about a year, and, to me, this may be a Republican platform to boost Donald Trump and the GOP. Every episode focuses TOO MUCH on what the GOP and/or Donald Trump said, did, or will do. It's very sad because I used to admire NPR, but now I'm out.

- Paralegal2018 09 Jul 2024

Leila Fadel ruins it

I listen to NPR because I don't like sensationalized opinionated news. Leila Fadel's comments like "it's racist" or "there's a theme there" are unnecessary and annoying. I can deduce those things on my own. Her comments detract from the news. I won't be listening anymore.

- RebekahViAnn 09 Jul 2024 United States

Great show

The Sunday episode on 7/7/24 regarding the Tennessee shooting survivors and their fight in state congress was excellent, but the lifelong GOP-voting mother in the story has no one to blame but herself and people like her. She voted that way her entire life and caused the situation she was in. It's pretty sad it took the threat of it happening to her family, after it had already happened to so many others, for her to care. Will we all have to lose a family member in a mass shooting before the right to preserve life becomes more important than the right to take it?

Ridiculous extrapolation

The most ridiculous extrapolation about children using phones I've ever heard in my life. The lunch room is quiet because everyone is texting each other? Please don't go show your boomer. That is not accurate and clearly blatant extrapolation. "They use their phone up to 43 minutes a day, it's like a whole chemistry class", sure but it's not proof that it's during chemistry. There are multiple minutes in between class periods, plus lunch, and after that if they're using their phone in class it isn't taking up the whole period. Boomers & Gen X forgot how bad they were in school and think they're allow to set new standards for rules they clearly don't understand.

I have been a faithful listener for years. My family are also regular monetary supporters of public radio and for that reason I'm not paying for a subscription. # Failing to report the news without subjectivity

The news should be provided in an unbiased manner, but Up First shows its bias loud and clear. So clearly anti-Israel. Your reporting on the sexual offences against Israeli women on October 7 was shameful. Casting doubt and only reporting on the minimal question marks within the UN report (which itself was problematic). Every Israel-Gaza news story is always first on the podcast, yet this one was placed at the end, the introduction was even biased leaving it open as to whether the report found sexual violence (it did... which should be a shock to absolutely no one). Take note: Jewish Voice for Peace does NOT speak on behalf of Jewish people! ### Once Upon A Time...

I was the person in my dorm room who listened faithfully to Bob Edwards on my NPR station in San Francisco. I loved it. I felt informed in a way that allowed me to truly consider all things and challenged my assumptions. Sadly no longer. It started with a barage of "we're all gonna die!" hysteria when COVID appeared on our shores and has ended with the ouster of Uri Berliner. ### NPR

This is a well-crafted podcast that provides news and current events. But, understand this is not a news source, this is a propaganda platform for the democrat party. # Listen with a contrasting view of you want reality

I listen every day to get the liberal take on current events. I listen to Daily Wire for the conservative take. They both have their own bias, but Up First is extremely biased and sometime flat out propaganda in that it poses as straight news, but there's so much political spin. If you listen, I highly recommend my practice of adding a contrasting show to compare it to. I appreciate the short format; and it addresses topics some conservative platforms don't. The "banter" at the beginning needs to go. It is so hard to listen to. Just the news, please. I do appreciate the traditional very calm NPR tone. I'd love more shows to follow that example.

Has morphed

First started listening to Up First years ago. It still does the job but it doesn't get 5 stars from me because of these critiques: 1) it's creeping up in length. A recent episode is 17 minutes long! The original point of it was for it to be an approx. 10min brief news update in the mornings. I might eventually unfollow if it keeps creeping because I didn't come here for a 20min news podcast. 2) The reporters' side commentary or opinions keep slipping in more and more. I'm left-leaning but to hear it come out in my news source can make me cringe. I didn't remove another star just for this because I have somewhat accepted that Up First will just do that and it's that flavor while I still have PBS for a neutral/factual flavor. 3) It's fine to report on sports news but sometimes it covers it for way too long. I remember some soccer thing a while back was a solid 3 minutes. In a brief 10-12min news podcast!! It didn't fit. Other than these critiques I appreciate the podcast.

Now Looking For My Headlines Elsewhere

I have listened to this show for years but have noticed over the past several months that they seem to be trying to add in a lot more humor/levity/shaping of the hosts' personalities. And I get that on many podcasts, this is absolutely what connects listeners to hosts and enriches the listener experience. But on a 12 minute headline news podcast, it often feels incredibly out of place and frequently pretty insensitive. To go from an odd 40 second open where the hosts are singing and cackling about needing coffee and engaging in giggly banter that maybe is fun for the hosts but really isn't funny to an outside listener to suddenly diving into news of genocide and crumbling democracies feels clunky at best. On today's episode, a correspondent delivered a line about how Russia has "thousands of nuclear weapons pointed at us that could reduce the U.S. to a pile of ash" with laughter and intonation as if he was delivering a line in a standup routine. I'm shocked at what producers are allowing to go out to the masses on such a big and respected platform. I don't doubt that the journalistic integrity behind NPR is as strong as it always has been, but delivery has changed so much recently and has added a level of distaste and mistrust in how I receive the news from Up First. Today's episode was my last. I'll be sticking with The Seven, What a Day, and The Daily moving forward, all highly recommended!

It's All In the Pitch.

NPR has some of the best hosts on the planet. IMHO what makes a great host is the art of vocal pitch. Accent has nothing to do with it. Speech impediments have nothing to do with it. Style has nothing to do with it. It's Pitch. A serious news outlet knows it has nothing to do with the reporter, their "voice", or their personality. If the pitch of their voice hits the ears like a whiny child, a crazy chimp, an angry mother, a nagging girlfriend, or a controlling boyfriend, they will lose me as a listener. Today the news is bad enough without triggering added stress through vocal pitch. A whiny, intense voice that projects from the throat and nasal cavity does not sooth a listener. A calm voice from the chest at just the right pace, lets a story speak for itself. I don't know if journalism professors and vocal coaches teach this to students, but news sources should pay attention when hiring staff that report the news program vocally.

Bias

I enjoy the show and the ease of getting the news in a short/concise format. However, there is some bias. It is off putting for me, as a person who sees the value in hearing just the facts, to be presented with biased reporting. News should not be skewed to one side of politics. Do not report on documents found by one president as if they are inherently guilty then do the exact opposite with the other. BE PROFESSIONAL. REPORT THE FACTS. ON ALL ISSUES.

Moderate

An update covering news from the day before, but with spin from the leftist perspective. For example, the special counsel report concluding the investigation into Joe Biden - NPR did mention there were noted concerns about President Biden's memory, but only mentioned concerns related to JB not remembering the date of his son's death, followed by JB explaining that it was due to his disgust at the question. However, NPR did not mention the report's discussion of JB's memory also stated that JB forgot the dates of when he was Vice President. Deeply troubling revelation that NPR intentionally omitted.

Great Pod but....

I'm a fan of this pod - it's a great, quick summary of the news-of-the-day, but... I can't stand listening to Carrie Johnson. She may be a wonderful journalist but her voice is like shaky nails on a chalkboard and she almost sounds like she is going to cry when delivering news. Kind of makes me feel defeated before my day has even started.

Regarding supreme court's decision to strike down affirmative action, the reporter decided to add her personal opinion by adding sarcasm. I hope that she knows there is another group of students who cannot get into their dream colleges with perfect applications because of their race. Applicants should be considered on an individual basis not based on their race.

The best daily news podcast

Great reporting that gets to the point quickly and gives you just enough so you can stay informed with important US and world news. I like that they swap out the hosts, so you get a different perspective and personality.

Anti-Israel Bias, single issue focus

Up First has been part of my morning for years. The coverage of Israel has never been good, but since this past October, it's been downright biased, ignorant, and harmful. Further, the show seems to pay no mind to anything else in the world - 90% of non-US coverage has been focused on twisting language and facts about Israel and Hamas. I can't listen anymore.

- hibou 02 Feb 2024 United States

No stars... reporting is not accurate

Western media is a joke and NPR is no different. I took a break for a bit and listened again the other day "evidence of UN involvement in October 7" by that the mean an article written by a former IDF soldier and no evidence presented.

Up First... sometimes

The reporting and hosts are 5 stars, but... for a show called "Up First" they are wildly inconsistent about when the episode is uploaded. Most of the time it's available between 6:30-7:00 am (EST). Sometimes it's more like 7:30-8:00. Saturdays are even later. I just wish I could rely on this podcast appearing in my feed at the same time every day.

Biased and Antisemitic Reporting

Reporting on the Israel/Hamas war is biased, and nearing antisemitic. Facts are twisted to present Hamas as a valid source of truth and Israel as the aggressor, when the opposite is true. Up First used to be my favorite news podcast, so it's disappointing to learn that the journalists are antisemitic and willing to let their POV muddy their reporting.

Bias Coverage

Y'all are literally manufacturing consent for the genocide. It's infuriating to listen to your coverage of the war on Gaza. Time and time again you are serving as the mouth piece of the Israeli government. You are only interested in serving America's "allies" abroad, many of which are promoting death and destruction. This podcast as LONG been a part of my morning routine, but I cannot do it anymore.

Religious does NOT mean the evangelicals that support Christian Nationalism

I am religious. I completely reject Trump. I do not believe that the government has a right to dictate pregnancy to unwilling mothers. PLEASE STOP talking about religious as if it is a voting block. There is a limited group of people hiding behind their religion to promote Christian nationalism as if THEY are the word of God and all morality. There are other points of view that includes a belief in God or a higher power, a belief in moral living, and wants very much to be heard. A "religious" state or voting block can include many alternative points of view. I cringe every time you state in the air that religious groups have one point of view.

Not what it was

NPR has taken the turn of other news stations and are acting like they get paid every time they say the "T" word. Definitely, not actual news anymore. They are only giving us biased snips of information when there is a LOT more happening.

Unfortunately, it's not what it used to be.

I'm not entirely sure when it started, but there's been a subtle but gradual shift in the show over the last 1-2 years. There used to be a good mix of the most important domestic and international stories but now, major topics get breezed over or skipped all together while others get coverage for far too long. I loved that I could get quick updates/ news on about 5 topics but that just doesn't happen anymore. Now it's a strange assortment of 2-3 stories covered at maximum. (Example: half of every episode is still covering either the Ukraine/Israel conflicts leaving little time for all the other news). Did the person writing the show/picking the stories get fired?!

Saturday & Sunday

I can't stand Ayesha Roscoe's voice. She also needs a script instead of just drifting all over the place, and lastly when I listen to the way she speaks I feel like I'm back in the hood. Proper pronunciation and good dictation are musts.

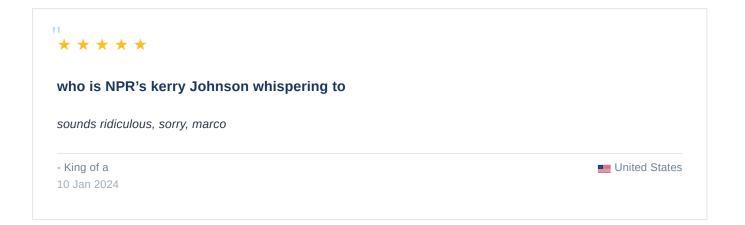

- Gabork 43 16 Jan 2024 United States

Antisemitic

NPR has become very anti Israel and antisemitic. They will seem to forget about all the Jews who are murdered, kidnapped, and tortured. Each story they present is more and more biased and one sided, it's a shame. I cannot listen to them and I will never donate to NPR again

Zzzz ..why is it there is no Saturday feed?

Here we are middle of Covid19 outbreaks AND where is my NPR Up First Saturday feed? And why did a hoody have five retakes where no one caught it on Morning Edition? This is painful. Update January 10, 2024. I am over NPR at this point. I understand everyone needs to make money but you were supposed to be a news organization that brought things to the forefront. Not I can only hear the news if I have it in five minutes increments. I can no longer have up first and you expect me to follow and like your show? I don't think so. I go through reviews every year myself and they're never easy and I try to learn from them. Perhaps you should learn that people do tend to wanna get what they pay for... but with new organizations we still expect to be able to see the news program ... that we didn't mind listening to the ads on...but now to get to it at all, you have to pay for it. Moving on. Jumping the shark.

Previous Axios listener

A while ago I was looking for news podcasts that were short and digestible. I try not to constantly consume the news (mainly TV or on Youtube) because it's so negative and we're not meant to consume the news 24 hours a day. I used to listen to Axios Today and enjoyed it, especially because of short form, interesting takes, and segments that I didn't know I'd be interested in. For some reason they decided to fix what wasn't broken and completely changed the podcast but I am glad that I found Up First to keep me informed.

SENTIMENT ANALYSIS

What is Sentiment Analysis? This section analyzes the emotional tone and attitudes expressed in your podcast reviews. By examining the language used by listeners, we can understand how your audience truly feels about your content beyond just star ratings.

Why it matters: Sentiment analysis reveals the emotional connection between your podcast and your audience. Positive sentiment indicates strong listener satisfaction and loyalty, while negative sentiment can highlight areas for improvement. This insight helps you understand what resonates with your audience and guides content strategy decisions.

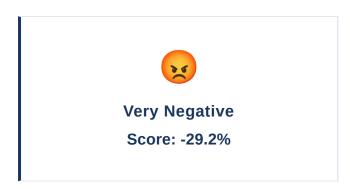

How it's generated: Our system processes the text content of your reviews using natural language processing (NLP) algorithms. Each review is analyzed for emotional indicators, keywords, and context to classify it as positive, neutral, or negative. The overall sentiment score is calculated based on the distribution and intensity of these classifications across all reviews in the selected period.

COMPETITIVE ANALYSIS & BENCHMARKING

What is Competitive Analysis? This section compares your podcast's performance against similar podcasts in your categories and markets. By analyzing competitors who rank in the same categories and countries, we provide context for your performance and identify positioning opportunities.

Why it matters: Understanding your competitive landscape helps you gauge your market position, set realistic performance goals, and identify growth opportunities. Knowing how you compare to similar podcasts reveals whether your rankings are above or below market average and where you have room for improvement.

How it's generated: We identify competitors by analyzing podcasts that rank in the same categories and countries as yours, focusing on those with similar ranking patterns. Competitive scores are calculated based on ranking proximity (within 20 positions) and frequency of co-occurrence. Your percentile ranking shows what percentage of competitors you outperform across all shared ranking positions.

Understanding Competitive Positioning: We provide three different ways to measure your competitive performance, each offering unique insights:

- All Rankings: Your overall average position across all categories and countries where you rank. This is informational but may be skewed by poor performance in less important or niche rankings.
- Top 10 Best Rankings: Your average position in the 10 rankings where you perform best vs competitors in those same rankings. This shows your potential when you're in your strongest categories.
- Favorite Countries: Your average position in your 4 selected priority countries vs competitors in those markets. This focuses on the markets that matter most to you.

SEASONALITY & TEMPORAL PATTERNS ANALYSIS

What is Seasonality & Temporal Analysis? This section examines how your podcast's performance varies across different time periods - from days of the week to months of the year. It identifies patterns in listener behavior, review activity, episode publishing, and ranking performance to reveal optimal timing strategies.

Why it matters: Understanding temporal patterns helps you optimize your content strategy by identifying when your audience is most active, which days generate the most reviews, and how seasonal trends affect your rankings. This insight enables you to time episode releases, marketing campaigns, and engagement efforts for maximum impact.

How it's generated: We analyze your historical data across multiple dimensions: review timestamps to identify peak engagement days, episode publication dates to find publishing patterns, and ranking data to detect seasonal performance trends. The analysis includes day-of-week patterns and correlations between episode releases and ranking improvements over 7-day windows.

GEOGRAPHIC OPPORTUNITIES

What is Geographic Opportunities Analysis? This section identifies untapped international markets where your podcast could potentially succeed. By analyzing countries where similar podcasts in your categories rank well but where you currently have no presence, we reveal expansion opportunities.

Why it matters: Geographic expansion can significantly increase your podcast's reach and audience base. Understanding which countries show strong demand for content similar to yours helps you prioritize international marketing efforts, localization strategies, and platform-specific optimizations to enter new markets effectively.

How it's generated: We analyze ranking data across Apple Podcasts, Spotify, and iVoox to identify countries where podcasts in your categories perform well (top 100 rankings). Countries where you have no current presence but where similar podcasts rank successfully are scored based on platform diversity, average ranking positions, total ranking volume, and category breadth. Only opportunities with significant potential (score  $\geq 30$ ,  $\geq 5$  rankings) are included.

Based on your current market presence and user preferences, we've identified English And Asian as your primary target market groups. This analysis focuses on culturally and linguistically relevant countries where your content is most likely to resonate with audiences.
