Now, fully left-leaning

You just went full liberal bias after your public funding was threatened huh? Omg ty so much for asking Pete Buttigieg the hard questions about his beard and what he thinks about Mamdani Why do your reporters talk in a tone like they're talking to children, specifically Kamilla

Biased news with only one side

Nothing like listening to disgruntled democrat extremists explain news in a way that's only opinion and minimal facts.

NO MORE FUNDING

Look I get that news outlets are gonna be bias, and that's fine, because freedom of speech is a thing. Would I rather them not be bias? Yeah. But they are. HOWEVER, the government should NOT be funding ANY news outlets with TAX PAYER DOLLARS because ALL OF THEM HAVE SOME SORT OF BIAS, as I said before. NPR is FAR from the exception as they lean far left. Just as the government should NOT be funding things like Fox or Daily Wire, they should not be funding NPR. To be clear, they also should be free to continue to make their show. They shouldn't be cancelled, they should still have freedom, but the government shouldn't use citizens' hard earned money to essentially donate to a private owned biased news outlet. Also, I listened to their episode on the rise of different media, and they seem to take the view that it is bad that there are conservative news outlets and that it should only be liberal ones. Pretty much any conservative that you talk to will say that it's good to have a balance of news from both sides of the aisle. I don't know about all of us, but most of us would say that it's good to hear the other side so you know what your side is doing wrong, like Trump with Epstein. That's why I listen to NPR in the first place, because I want balance in my news. It's disturbing that they don't want the same and are discouraging diversity in media.

MORE MUST DONATE!

Let me say this now, WE CANNOT LOSE NPR! Please do your part and donate to NPR. Donald Trump is trying to silence the voices of the people and replace them with right wing propaganda. We will not stand for this. We will keep public broadcasting for all time. No one can ever silence the American citizenry, no matter how hard they try.

It's all in the language. The dehumanizing of brown bodies under apartheid. The phrase Israeli hostages vs Palestinian prisoners. A zionist narrative that there are no innocent Palestinians. It's not the Gaza war when one side has American aid in weaponry. This whole idea that Hamas is this big bad boogie man when it reality only the IDF is dropping bombs and dancing about it on tik tok. Or settlers who block aid. Call it what it is, the war on Gaza.

Be direct

Why in the Mamdani interview did you circle the issue of anti-Semitism, and not directly ask him about the time he was an aspiring rapper and rapped lyrics praising an organization convicted of funding Hamas? This was in 2017. Voters deserve to know if he's changed his mind or continues to hold these beliefs? This is part of a larger complaint I have with this show. You increasingly circle the issues, instead of just asking questions head on. Everything is so precious and delicate. NPR's role is journalist. Unlike a press secretary, you shouldn't be skirting issues by avoiding topics that may make an interviewee (or some listeners) uncomfortable. It feels like you are pandering to your perceived audience, which means your journalism is biased. Mamdani is not the only person you've done this with. In a world devoid of fact-based news, I still root for NPR. I still think it's one of the few sane sources out there. But just because the bar has been lowered by other news sources, doesn't mean you, NPR, also get to lower the bar on your journalistic standards and allow biased reporting by going easy on some interviewees and soft on others. Get the truth out of everyone. Ask the hard questions. That's your job.

SENTIMENT ANALYSIS

What is Sentiment Analysis? This section analyzes the emotional tone and attitudes expressed in your podcast reviews. By examining the language used by listeners, we can understand how your audience truly feels about your content beyond just star ratings.

Why it matters: Sentiment analysis reveals the emotional connection between your podcast and your audience. Positive sentiment indicates strong listener satisfaction and loyalty, while negative sentiment can highlight areas for improvement. This insight helps you understand what resonates with your audience and guides content strategy decisions.

How it's generated: Our system processes the text content of your reviews using natural language processing (NLP) algorithms. Each review is analyzed for emotional indicators, keywords, and context to classify it as positive, neutral, or negative. The overall sentiment score is calculated based on the distribution and intensity of these classifications across all reviews in the selected period.

COMPETITIVE ANALYSIS & BENCHMARKING

What is Competitive Analysis? This section compares your podcast's performance against similar podcasts in your categories and markets. By analyzing competitors who rank in the same categories and countries, we provide context for your performance and identify positioning opportunities.

Why it matters: Understanding your competitive landscape helps you gauge your market position, set realistic performance goals, and identify growth opportunities. Knowing how you compare to similar podcasts reveals whether your rankings are above or below market average and where you have room for improvement.

How it's generated: We identify competitors by analyzing podcasts that rank in the same categories and countries as yours, focusing on those with similar ranking patterns. Competitive scores are calculated based on ranking proximity (within 20 positions) and frequency of co-occurrence. Your percentile ranking shows what percentage of competitors you outperform across all shared ranking positions.

Understanding Competitive Positioning: We provide three different ways to measure your competitive performance, each offering unique insights:

- All Rankings: Your overall average position across all categories and countries where you rank. This is informational but may be skewed by poor performance in less important or niche rankings.
- Top 10 Best Rankings: Your average position in the 10 rankings where you perform best vs competitors in those same rankings. This shows your potential when you're in your strongest categories.
- Favorite Countries: Your average position in your 4 selected priority countries vs competitors in those markets. This focuses on the markets that matter most to you.

SEASONALITY & TEMPORAL PATTERNS ANALYSIS

What is Seasonality & Temporal Analysis? This section examines how your podcast's performance varies across different time periods - from days of the week to months of the year. It identifies patterns in listener behavior, review activity, episode publishing, and ranking performance to reveal optimal timing strategies.

Why it matters: Understanding temporal patterns helps you optimize your content strategy by identifying when your audience is most active, which days generate the most reviews, and how seasonal trends affect your rankings. This insight enables you to time episode releases, marketing campaigns, and engagement efforts for maximum impact.

How it's generated: We analyze your historical data across multiple dimensions: review timestamps to identify peak engagement days, episode publication dates to find publishing patterns, and ranking data to detect seasonal performance trends. The analysis includes day-of-week patterns and correlations between episode releases and ranking improvements over 7-day windows.

engaging with your audience on this day.

Publishing Strategy

You typically publish on Wednesdays.
Consider testing different days to maximize audience engagement.

Episode Impact

24 episodes showed positive ranking impact.
Analyze successful episodes to replicate their success.

GEOGRAPHIC OPPORTUNITIES

What is Geographic Opportunities Analysis? This section identifies untapped international markets where your podcast could potentially succeed. By analyzing countries where similar podcasts in your categories rank well but where you currently have no presence, we reveal expansion opportunities.

Why it matters: Geographic expansion can significantly increase your podcast's reach and audience base. Understanding which countries show strong demand for content similar to yours helps you prioritize international marketing efforts, localization strategies, and platform-specific optimizations to enter new markets effectively.

How it's generated: We analyze ranking data across Apple Podcasts, Spotify, and iVoox to identify countries where podcasts in your categories perform well (top 100 rankings). Countries where you have no current presence but where similar podcasts rank successfully are scored based on platform diversity, average ranking positions, total ranking volume, and category breadth. Only opportunities with significant potential (score  $\geq 30$ ,  $\geq 5$  rankings) are included.
